

Steve'n'Seagulls

It could've been a cold winter day or warm summer night in Finland - but it was around 2010. Someone came up with the idea of combining bluegrass, Finnish folk, and rock/metal music. The outcome was and has since been Steve'n'Seagulls. The band you didn't know you missed, but you do know you want to hear again. Hailing from Finland in Northern Europe - this jolly bunch is riding harder and faster than ever.

To put it short, in 2014, the band filmed three live music videos on a farm. The second one, their new and fresh take on AC/DC classic Thunderstruck took the internet by storm. Suddenly, this flock of seagulls found themselves touring worldwide, recording an album and touring harder than ever. Since 2014, Steve'n'Seagulls have recorded four studio albums. The debut album Farm Machine (2015) took the band on the road for 170 shows in Europe and North America. They rocked and made their audience smile, from small clubs to some of the biggest festivals in Europe. The second album, Brothers in Farms (2016), continued to plow the way and took the band to #1 on the Billboard bluegrass chart as the first Finnish band ever. They continued touring Europe and North America with a sweaty pace of over 130 shows per year, and in 2018, they released their third album, Grainsville. As its predecessor, Grainsville included re-arranged classic and original music from Seagulls. Grainsville tour ended up taking the band to three continents and over 180 shows. But when it's going - It's rollin'. In 2020, Steve 'n' Seagulls released their fourth studio album, Another Miracle. Their most ambitious album includes half original music and half re-strung classics. And you guessed right - as soon as the pandemic allows - boys will be on the road in Europe, North America, South America and Australia.

So far, all four Steve'n'Seagulls albums have hit the album charts in Finland and the Billboard bluegrass chart. Their music videos have gathered close to 340 million views on YouTube alone. While waiting for the release of their fifth studio album, we have seen and heard two new single releases. The Signals from the past was an original released in February of 2024. The song and the accompanying video presented a new angle of Steve'n'Seagulls with a 1980s vibe. Flashy and Sci-fi flavoured video was written and directed by Finnish movie director Jukka Vidgrèn. Their latest release saw the first rays of light in November 2024. The Queen classic Too much love will kill you turned into a beautiful bluegrass/country ballad. The video, on the other hand... Let's say that Finnish humour, live music and a lovely English song can shake hands like you've never seen before.

They have played at some of the biggest festivals on this earth - including Wacken Open Air, Summer Breeze, Rencontres Trans Musicales, Nova Rock, etc. In over 30 countries and four continents, audiences from small clubs to big venues have witnessed their musical adventures and pure good times. And the flight continues.